AMOUNT OF STOCK AND SUPPLIES ON THE FARM.

One horse, 11 cows, 1 two-year-old heifer, 2 yearling heifers, 2 hogs, 10 hens, 35 cords wood, 40 tons ice, 24 bushels beans, 300 pounds pork, 50 bushels potatoes, 33 tons hay.

There are now three inmates on the farm, Fred Plummer, Jabez Carpenter, and Sawyer Harris.

We have always found everything about the farm in good condition, the inmates well cared for, and the stock kept in good working order, as the product from the cows will show.

We have employed Luther Thurlow to manage the farm for the ensuing year at a salary of $300.

GENERAL REMARKS.

With the exception of bills for medical attendance the pauper expenses have been quite small. We have received notice from the town of Winslow that a Mrs. H. O. Spaulding and several minor children were on expense there, claiming to have derived a settlement from John P. Higgins. Their settlement has been denied, and if the claim is pushed it will probably be necessary to take the case into court.

The town-house has been painted and the guide-boards thoroughly repaired, painted, and lettered, and the necessary expense taken from the contingent fund.

All interest orders have been paid and the town is now entirely out of debt and with quite a balance standing to its credit, with all of its property in good repair. We have been unable to find the original "Proprietors' Records;" the nearest we have got to it was a copy of a copy, and before using such material we would recommend that more time be granted and a more thorough search be made for the original papers. In accordance with your vote at the last annual meeting the Selectmen united with the Road Commissioner and purchased a team of four horses, two sets of harnesses, 1 cart, blankets, whiffle-trees, etc., at an expense of $760.25.

The general condition of the schools has been improved during the past year.

The work, taken as a whole, has been of excellent quality, but it should be remembered in estimating the character of the work done in our schools, that due allowance must always be made for the limitations imposed on it by the deficiencies of our school system.

Conscientious effort has been made to secure the very best teachers within our means, for so long as supervision is insufficient and classification faulty and irregular, only the best qualified teachers can show results that are even reasonably satisfactory. Several changes in teachers have occurred during the year, yet they have been unavoidable, and in most instances much to be regretted.

One teacher resigned her position on account of ill health, and in nearly every case the teachers who left us did so for the purpose of occupying better positions or to take up more advantageous lines of work. The improvement that might be made in our schools by better classification, has been very clearly shown in one of them during the past year. In accordance with a suggestion made in the report of last year, the town voted relief to the unfavorable conditions then existing in the Upper Corner School, and it was thereby made possible to divide the school into a primary and a grammar grade. The gain made by this change has been evident to the most casual observation, and I wish here to express the great gratification afforded me in the knowledge that the change made in this school and the work accomplished in it, have been so thoroughly appreciated by the parents and citizens of that district. I recommend that the division and gradation of this school be continued for the coming year, and as the room that has been occupied by the primary grade can be obtained for a rental of $25 per year, it is probable that no more economical arrangement than this can be made.

Interest in the schools, I am pleased to say, has not been confined to one locality, but an increased, and, it seems to me, unusual interest in, and appreciation of the work done in the schools, has been expressed by parents and citizens in different sections of the town. An awakened and growing interest in the schools is good guaranty of their future improvement, and I trust the time is near at hand when the people will demand a decided change in their management, and in the character of work done in them.

We must abandon the idea that the schools are good enough. Nearly every school in which unsatisfactory work was done during the past year could have been greatly improved had teacher and pupils been strictly held to a well-defined course of study, and still more could there have been that general oversight and assistance which adequate supervision is designed to give.

We have had a course of study for fifteen years, but it has been practically a dead letter, and must continue so until superintendent and teachers work together to carry out its provisions.

It would seem almost superfluous to enter into the reasons why more supervision is necessary; but I will call your attention in the first place to the additional time and care required in connection with free text-books. I am convinced that there could be a material saving in expense if a proper registry were made of all books given out, and account kept of all losses and unnecessary injury to books. It should also be required of the teacher to take such care and keep such record of books as would permit a pupil to retain each new book given him until he has completed the same. Thus any pupil, careful of his books, would not be compelled to use those worn or soiled by others, and the careless pupil would, in some measure, suffer penalty for carelessness.

Secondly, consolidation of schools, which has been made necessary in several districts by the reduced number of pupils, demands additional service on the part of the Superintendent, since it devolves upon that officer to make all arrangements in regard to the conveyance of pupils. Also a more careful examination of teachers is now required than was formerly the case. But a more cogent reason than any of these already mentioned is found in the fact that there is an increasing demand, nowhere more pronounced than in our own state, perhaps, that the ungraded school shall be included in the improved plans and methods that are now receiving the attention of educators throughout the country, and efficient supervision seems to be the open door through which the ungraded school can take its place in the line of progress.

It is my opinion that the town would be amply repaid in the results obtained if a competent person should be fairly paid for such supervision as would strictly hold teachers and pupils to a well-prepared course of study, compel the full school attendance required by the laws of the state, attend to the proper examination of all candidates for the position of teacher in the town, and give such attention and oversight to the details of school work as is required in any adequate system of superintendence. The duties of such superintendence might well require the whole time of a superintendent during the school year; and the expense of such oversight need not be greater than that required for one additional thoroughly competent and experienced teacher.

In conclusion I would again recommend for your consideration some consolidation of schools. Its importance has been recognized by the state, legislation having made consolidation compulsory whenever the number of pupils in any school becomes reduced to specified limits. We know that our smaller schools labor under disadvantages that do not exist in the larger ones. It is plainly the duty of the town, so far as may be practicable, to equalize the opportunities offered for the education of our children, and since consolidation will be found to be largely to the advantage of the smaller districts, it offers, I think, the only efficient remedy for the inequalities now existing. When the parents in these districts, recognizing the value of consolidation, shall demand it of the town as that which is justly their due, I believe the town will be ready to grant it.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN I. STURGIS,

Superintendent of Schools.
